

POLICE COMMISSIONERS.

The Board Preparing for War or Peace.
The office at the police station, yesterday afternoon, looked as though the police force had made a big haul of a lot of big-chested, away men, and they were waiting on the bench for their assignment to their cells. It was not the case. These men were waiting to wear the blue uniform and to be sworn in, and draw $200 per month for their performance in keeping the peace, and to get in their appearance with their applications for the consideration of the Police Commissioners who were in session yesterday afternoon.

All the members of the Police Board were present. Mayor Workman, President of the Council, and Chief of Police Dwyer, were present. The meeting was called to order at 3:30 p.m., and the minutes of the previous session read, and on motion, approved. The signatures of Officers Frank Lennon and H. Gilbert were then read, and on motion, received and accepted.

The petition of E. Ballard and others, asking that Frank Gage be appointed as a special officer was, on motion, received and referred to the Chief of Police.

The petition of Officer Bosqui, asking the board to give their indorsement to his bill for money expended on special police work, was received, and on motion laid on the table. On motion, John Nixon and George B. Fitch were appointed as special members of the Police force of this City. Applications for positions on the police force were then read and read from the following citizens: John Nixon (appointed), George B. Fitch (appointed), John F. Maguire, J. B. Chadwell, R. V. Ott, F. D. Lahart, A. Weimer, C. Wimmer, James Fitzpatrick, and were ordered to be placed on file. The board adjourned.

The session yesterday afternoon was a very long one, and a large amount of business was transacted, which for the present is not considered wise to make public. It is rumored that some course of action was determined upon in relation to the extermination of several of the worst dens of vice located in Chinatown, and that there was some discussion in relation to the matter of the resignations of those officers who had sent in such papers. It is certain that a short time "something will drop," but present what that something is can only be guessed at.

The Courts.
The criminal calendar was called in Judge Henny's Court yesterday, and cases set for trial as follows: J. J. Bodkin, November 14th; Grettie Rozelle, December 4th; William Williams, November 14th; Francisco Alarcon, November 14th; J. J. Bodkin, November 14th; F. P. Weeks, November 24th; John L. Mink, October 5th; John McQuillough et al., October 24th; Golden, November 14th; J. H. McDonald, November 17th; Ed Burns, November 18th; J. H. Caldwell, November 19th.

Justice Taney.
L. B. Cohn was fined $7 for battery.

Justice Austin.
The trial of James Murphy and Thomas Moore was set for October 7th.

A Cruel Driver.
Last evening a team belonging to the Pacific Truck Company became stalled in a place in Main street near First, and although the load, which being household goods in removal, was double what two horses should be expected to haul, the driver became unduly angered and lashed the horses unmercifully. His cruel treatment again the driver did not cease his furious use of the whip. In crossing Main street the horses became uncontrollable and in the hind end of a buggy standing near the curb.

Remains of a Mastodon Unearthed.
On Wednesday last Mr. G. B. Stine, who is grading the lots of Mr. H. C. Witmer, on the hills near the Ellis College, plowed up the bones of a mastodon. They were lying under the adobe soil, about a foot from the surface. The bones were partly petrified, and were broken up and displaced by the plow that but few specimens were secured. While grading Orange Heights recently Mr. Stine uncovered an abalone shell, thus showing the locality to have been a part of the ocean bed. In March last, while grading near the covered bridge on Boyle Heights, Mr. Stine found a copper cannon-ball, weighing eight pounds, and a human skeleton of unusual large size.

Young People's Meeting.
The young people of the centrally located evangelical churches will hold a union young people's meeting at Fort-street M. Church tomorrow afternoon at 5:30 o'clock.

The subject will be "He Callesth Thee," Mark x.

Mr. A. B. Clapp, of the First Congregational Church, will lead the meeting.

It is the intention of the young people to hold these meetings periodically every two or three months. The first one was held on the last Sabbath evening in June at the First Presbyterian Church and was a decided success.

All young people will be most welcome.

THE SAN DIMAS TRACT!
—300 Acres, in Lots of From 5 to 40 Acres, —

TO SUIT PURCHASERS, ARE SELLING AT
FROM $150 TO $400 PER ACRE!

THIS FINE PROPERTY IS MOST BEAUTIFULLY SITUATED AT the foot of Sierra Madre Mountains on California Central Railroad, only twenty-five miles from Los Angeles, and one mile and a half from the flourishing town of Lordsburg.

THE SOIL OF THIS TRACT
Will grow luxuriantly all the fruits, citrus and deciduous, known to our semi-tropic climate ESPECIALLY THE ORANGE,

WHOSE TREES ARE FREE FROM SCALE, and whose fruit is abundant in yield and bright in color, and of delicious flavor. THE FAMOUS MUSCAT GRAPES, the finest table and raisin-making grape in the world, as well as the best varieties of wine-producing grapes, flourish on this land. LARGE CROPS OF ALFALFA, of vegetables, and of all the cereals, respond to the hand of industry on this FERTILE SAN DIMAS TRACT.

IN POINT OF WATER SUPPLY
It is, perhaps, the most favored of any tract in the country. THE SAN JOSE LAND AND WATER COMPANY, who are the owners, and under whose auspices this splendid tract is put on the market, guarantees at least one inch of pure water to each ten-acre tract sold. This is PIPED DIRECTLY FROM SAN DIMAS CREEK,

A NEVER-FAILING, SNOW-FED MOUNTAIN STREAM, whose crystal waters are supplemented by living springs adjacent to the tract. As a means of facilitating this abundant supply of water, the company are now excavating a tunnel of 300 feet in length to drain the under-current of the San Dimas Creek, and to be used as a conduit from their mammoth reservoir in the mountains. The capacity of this MOUNTAIN RESERVOIR IS 150 MILLIONS OF GALLONS.

The geographical situation of the tract is beautifully picturesque. Every acre of it commands the splendid scenery of San Gabriel, Santa Ana and other valleys, with the superb mountain ranges from the coast to San Bernardino, that, towering over each other, frame in the varying pictures of which PASADENA, POMONA, PALOMARES, LORDSBURG and SAN DIMAS are the pleasant centers. Taking the SOIL, CLIMATE, WATER-SUPPLY AND SCENERY
Of this tract, its RAILROAD FACILITIES, nearness to market and the social, moral and educational advantages tributary to its surroundings, together with the VERY LOW PRICE PER ACRE for which it can be bought, it may safely be said that it offers inducements for investment SUPERIOR TO ANY TRACT NOW ON THE MARKET.

TERMS—One-third cash, balance in six and twelve months. Maps of the tract can had and additional facts given by calling on

W. F. HEATHMAN,
Secretary, 25 Temple Street,

23,000 ACRES OF THE FAMOUSLY RICH

CHINO RANCH!
IS NOW IN THE MARKET IN TEN-ACRE TRACTS.

THE WHOLE TRACT lies near Pomona and Ontario, in San Bernardino county, which fine public improvements, cash ahead, and enjoys the LOWEST TAX RATES.

THOUSANDS OF ACRES ARE MOIST AND NEED NO IRRIGATION, and may be made immediately profitable by cultivating SMALL FRUITS, garden vegetables, alfalfa, etc. The immense size of the ranch enables buyers to choose tracts exactly suited to vegetables and alfalfa in the San Dimas, to olives, grapes, peaches, prunes, pears, plums, apples, berries; to walnuts and other nuts—all staple products with steady and improving markets.

Full-Bearing Orchards and Vineyards
Are growing thrifty WITHOUT IRRIGATION on lands immediately adjoining the dryest part of the Chino lands. No other lands in the State give surer guarantee of the LARGEST PROFITS at so small cost realized in the growth of vegetables and all citrus and deciduous fruits, and from

$200 to $1000 Per Acre are Realized

In different parts of the State from many products. THE SOIL IS OF UNEQUALLED FERTILITY. It is mainly decomposed vegetable matter, with sand enough to prevent baking in dry and becoming muddy in wet weather. MOISTURE READILY PENETRATES TO THE ROOTS. The whole tract is smooth, devoid of brush and ready for the plow, without gulches or rocks, with a uniform slope of twenty to forty feet to the mile; just right for best drainage without washing.

Artesian and Surface Water
Is plentiful, pure and soft. Artesian water is flowing from wells 150 to 200 feet on different parts of the tract, and an abundance of unfailing surface water from six to eighteen feet. More artesian wells are being sunk. Plentiful supply is assured.

The Title is Absolutely Perfect.
RAILROAD FACILITIES are good and will soon be better. Depots of the two great OVERLAND LINES are near. Surveys have been made through the heart of the tract by the Pomona and Elsinore and Southern Pacific companies, and a railroad will soon be built connecting directly with two competing overland lines, insuring LOW FARES AND FREIGHTS to all inland and seaboard cities in the United States.

The Town of Chino
Is eligibly located in the center of the tract, with large lots, broad streets, alleys and reservations for SPACIOUS PARKS. It will have steam and motor roads and artesian water. It is certain to be

THE BEST PREMIUM OFFERED
By any Paper in the United States.

THE MOST PRACTICAL! THE MOST RELIABLE
Everybody should have a copy of our "FAMILY PHYSICIAN."

This book contains 544 pages; is eight and one-half inches long, six inches wide and two inches thick. It is printed on extra heavy paper and is handsomely bound, with embossed cover and gilt-lettered back.

IT IS DIFFERENT FROM ALL OTHER WORKS OF THE KIND EVER PUBLISHED. FIRST—It teaches those who have it how to tell what the matter is when some one gets sick. All similar books tell what to do—if you know what the disease is. THIS BOOK TELLS YOU HOW TO RECOGNIZE THE DISEASE, and then what to do for it. No other book published does this.

SECOND—When a person is really attacked by a dangerous disease, it enables you to know the fact, and in such cases its advice is, "Send for a competent physician at once." In all ordinary cases, such as can be cured without a doctor (and most of the ailments in a family are of this kind, if only you could recognize them), it gives full directions for treatment. The point is, that it teaches you the difference between a dangerous and a trifling disease and tells you when it is necessary and when it is not necessary to call a physician. No other book published does this.

THIRD—It gives separately, and for each disease, the methods used by each of the different "schools of medicine," and in all cases the prescriptions are made by the most eminent men in their respective mode of practice. This makes the work specially suited to the needs of every family, no matter what school of medicine they prefer—the Allopathic, Homoeopathic, Hydropathic, Eclectic or Heretic. NO OTHER BOOK PUBLISHED DOES THIS.

WE WILL SHOW YOU HOW IT DOES THIS
If you will call and see us.

Every family should have a guide to assist the family doctor, not intended to take the place of the doctor in every instance, but to help you do everything possible in his absence.

—TO OUR OLD SUBSCRIBERS:—

It is customary with newspapers to give premiums to new subscribers only; but the publishers of the MIRROR mean to reverse this old rule; they intend to do as well, at least, by their old subscribers—those who have stood by the paper in years past, and paid their money for it "right straight along." We propose to show our appreciation of these friends in a substantial manner; and as the premium to be offered is expensive, and as our express object in offering it is to increase our list of subscribers, we will require every old subscriber who may renew his subscription, in order to receive the valuable premium, to bring in AT LEAST ONE NEW SUBSCRIBER, to whom the premium will be given, as well as to the old subscriber.

The Newspaper World.

THE American Newspaper Annual, for 1887, published by N. W. Ayer & Son, Philadelphia, has made its appearance, and, as usual, is a very interesting work, notwithstanding the fact that it is wholly statistical. It is a large quarto volume, comprising nearly 1200 pages, and all save about 250 pages, is devoted to classified lists of newspapers and periodicals in the United States and Territories and Canada. The number of publications in the United States and Territories, classified according to issue, is given as follows:

Daily.....1,304
 Tri-weekly.....40
 Semi-weekly.....172
 Weekly.....1,487
 Bi-weekly.....54
 Semi-monthly.....192
 Monthly.....1,411
 Bi-monthly.....88
 Quarterly.....88
 Miscellaneous.....8
 Total.....14,877

In this total there has been an increase, since 1886, of 330.

Canada has 87 dailies and 516 weeklies, and a total of all issues of 723, an increase over 1886 of 22. Classified by States the list is as follows, the total number of publications being given in each case:

NEW ENGLAND STATES.
 Maine.....192
 New Hampshire.....106
 Vermont.....69
 Massachusetts.....565
 Rhode Island.....51
 Connecticut.....150-1102

 Indian Territory.....39

Grand total.....14,877

It is noticeable that the Western States publish little more than one half of the total number of papers in the country. California, although twenty-second in the list, according to population is fourteenth on the list in the number of her publications.

It would be interesting to know the aggregate of publications placed before their readers by this great array of journals every day, week, month and year, but the task of computation is somewhat beyond us at present. Of a truth the press of America is a mighty and far-reaching power.

Clear-Sighted Fred Douglass.

Writing to a friend, Dr. William H. Johnson of Albany, that venerable old colored man, Frederick Douglass, the most prominent representative of his race in the United States, has this to say:

I have come home as I left home, firmly believing in the future of our country and of the colored race, and of the Republican party. I have no more patience now than heretofore with those who teach the colored people to believe in the superiority of the Republican party; that there is no difference between the two great parties; that the colored man has no more to hope from the one than from the other, and that we should now throw principles to the wind and go just where we can get the largest share of the spoils. The black man was hatched into freedom and political life in the Republican nest and under the Republican wings, and it is a fool bird that will sell his own nest or despise the wings that have sheltered and warmed him into life. I fear we shall have to wait a good while before the Democratic party, with its antecedents, its war record, its dependence upon the solid South, shall make itself acceptable to any considerable number of colored voters. I would rather have the party of freedom and progress in defeat than with the party of the Glorious 11 in victory.

FREDERICK DOUGLASS.

Uncolored by ignorance and unswayed by passion or prejudice, Douglass utters words of wisdom for the guidance of his race. He does not forget the past of his people, nor those who put the lash of the oppressor upon him and his, and who show the same malevolence today whenever they have the power. The voice of Douglass will be heard by all intelligent men of color as a call to renewed zeal.

Another Lightning Calculation.

The Morning Trombone has just finished another lightning calculation. In speaking of Gov. Waterman's tender of the Major-Generals of the National Guard of California to Brigadier-General W. H. Dimond, the Trombone says: "The (Dimond) earned and attained to the rank of Brigadier-General in the war of the Rebellion; but that is no reason why he might not feel complimented by an appointment to be Major-General of the State forces. The more so, perhaps, as on a notable occasion, one year ago, he was obliged to listen to a speech from his successful competitor for the gubernatorial nomination in which a remark like this occurred: 'The last has gone by that a man, for good service rendered on the battle field, can lay claim to civil honors. That speech is believed to have cost Mr. Smith hundreds of votes. It has never damaged Gen. Dimond in the least. His gallant services in the army against the rebels are remembered all the same.' Gov. Waterman does not forget them."

Well, now, there's news for you. Certainly a most interesting, if not annoying, news morsel for Gen. Dimond and an eye-opener for Gov. Waterman.

Brig-Gen. Dimond did not "attain to the rank of Brigadier-General in the war of the Rebellion." W. H. Dimond may have earned that honor, but he never received it. By virtue of a nomination made by a Republican Governor—George C. Perkins—and a confirmation made by Gov. Stoneman's Democratic Senate, W. H. Dimond became Brigadier-General of the National Guard of California, a position which he has filled with honor to himself, credit to the State and satisfaction to all.

The quotation made from the speech delivered by Mr. Swift before the Republican State Convention which convened in this city, was not leveled at Gen. Dimond, as the lightning calculator of the morning Trombone seems to insinuate. We speak advisedly when we use the expression, "Seems to insinuate," for it is very difficult to determine what the Trombone intends to say when it talks from the inspiration of a lightning calculation.

CHARLESTON, S. C., is rapidly rising from the ruin caused by the series of cyclones and earthquakes with which she has been afflicted. The News and Courier publishes the record of the last year's work, and it is indeed wonderful. There were 6956 residences and other buildings rebuilt or repaired; 271 new buildings erected, and the cost of rebuilding and repairs amounts to $4,294,775, of which the people of Charleston have expended $3,000,000. Even when earthquakes were an almost daily occurrence there was no suspension of business. A proud record for Charleston and a magnificent display of American pluck and energy.

As the details become known it transpires that the cyclone which swept over Brownsville, Tex., on the night of the 21st, was terribly destructive of property and growing crops. As yet no loss of life is reported. The wind reached a velocity of over eighty miles an hour. The rainfall by actual measurement reached ten inches. The floods did almost as much damage as the wind. Countless cattle and sheep have been lost and whole crops of cotton, corn and sugar cane were prostrated and are destroyed.

THE San Jose Times seems to contain no other editorial stock in trade than a sort of wheezy, pin-headed abuse of Los Angeles. The editor of the Times is a dapper little fellow, who wears his hat cocked at an angle of forty-five degrees over his left ear. The hat is usually a number five and of the cockleshell pattern; and his editorials are of a piece with the shape and size of his hat.

That Smelly Case.

The case of Frank Couture, charged by Officer Wright, of the Humane Society, with having violated the city ordinance by selling liquor to minors, was called at the city court yesterday afternoon. By some means, however, it appears that two of the most important witnesses got it into their heads that the case was to be tried by Justice Taney, and went to his court at the hour set, and when sent after by an officer could not be found. This being the case, the hearing was postponed, at the request of Attorney Attorney Dunn, until next Thursday at 9:30 o'clock a.m. This is the case in which the defendant is charged with selling liquor to minors, and it is alleged that Couture is the saloon-keeper who sold them the stuff.

MANIFEST DESTINY.

LOWER CALIFORNIA UNITED TO SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA.

One Flag, One Climate, One Geography, One People, One State--The Annexation of the Southern Peninsula Demanded.

With the appearance of THE TIMES' editorial on Mexican California showing natural, political and other reasons why Lower California should be united politically to Southern California, the following appears in the columns of the San Diegoan:

Ever since the treaty of Guadalupe Hidalgo in 1848, that took place under the administration of James K. Polk, when Upper California was ceded to the United States for a consideration of $15,000,000, the natural and general belief has prevailed that the peninsula of Lower California--a strip of territory under Mexican jurisdiction--would ultimately or after the lapse of a few years, become annexed to California, and form by natural geographical contour, one continuous American commonwealth from Siskiyou on the north to Cape St. Lucas, at the extreme southern boundary of Lower California. If the wish was father to the thought, by every logical deduction, the wish was well founded, and in the natural course of political events was destined to be realized. It is manifest to the most casual observer that tendencies are in operation, and rapidly shaping themselves, that will soon result in the extension of the boundaries of that portion of our State now made famous over the entire continent, and known as Southern California, the sun-kissed empire of the Pacific Coast. This Mexican territory of Lower California extends through nearly ten degrees of latitude, and embraces a variety of climate, soil and mineral resources practically boundless in the scope of their potentialities. Mountain, valley and stream, happily diversified, rich in agricultural capabilities and mineral wealth, lie waiting the touch of American industry, and the divining-rod of American capital. The peninsula of Lower California is seven hundred and fifty miles in length and from thirty to one hundred and fifty miles in width, and contains about sixty thousand square miles of territory, and has only a population of about 25,000 Mexicans, most of whom are Mestizos, representing a union of Spaniard and Indian. These people are incapable of utilizing this valuable land, their mode of life partaking of the characteristics of the Indian, who takes no thought of the morrow and places but little value on today. This is not a population that ever contributed to the development of a country, nor would its possibilities ever be known through them. Southern California and Lower California are by nature one--one in climate, one in soil, and one in geographical peculiarities. They should be under one flag, and that flag the Stars and Stripes. Nature has fixed the natural boundaries of California, and Lower California is separated from the Mexican States by the Gulf of California. Mexico does not need Lower California; California does. Annexation carries with it boundless possibilities of development for Lower California, when bound to the fortunes of the Golden State, and united to her destiny by ligaments of commercial ties and common laws. Annexation is a word that carries with it acquisition of territory by the peaceful instrumentalities of purchase and the mutual agreement of amicable Republics. The day has now arrived when American capital is being invested in Lower California, and under the operation of American laws her development would be as rapid as California. American capital is naturally and wisely chary of investment on Mexican soil, where the Government has heretofore proven itself so unstable in its political conditions. It is not because of the injustice, or lack of wisdom in the framing of Mexican laws that Americans hesitate to place their capital in agricultural or mining enterprises, but on account of the inefficiency of the means for enforcing them. The troubles resulting from conflicting titles are well known, and it is almost a waste of words to say that no permanent or substantial development can take place until title to property, land in particular, and other possessions in general, are fixed by judicial decisions that are invested with perpetuity and justice. Annexation would attract capital and population, develop vast agricultural and mineral resources, build railroads, utilize natural harbors and make tributary to Southern California the productions of a territory that is now bound hand and foot to the rock of conservatism in methods, and overhung by a cloud of conflicting land titles that darken the commercial sky. Annexation would be welcomed by thousands in Lower California, who are harassed by doubts and tortured with uncertainty regarding the validity of titles to grants without number. What has been done for Spanish grants in California in the judicial settlement of land titles, and the right partition of property represented by broad acres irregularly and falsely conveyed, would be repeated on the peninsula, that is now the theater of contention over conflicting land claims, the ultimate settlement of which must be found in a new order of things. Annexation we believe to be the only practicable or satisfactory solution of the problems to which we have briefly alluded. There are many significant results that would follow the acquisition of Lower California by the United States that need not necessarily be mentioned at the present time, but which exist in potential value in their territorial aggrandizement that we advocate as a great State and national benefit. If there be any truth in the saying that there is an "eternal fitness of things," with how much truth and force can the application be made to this question of annexation of Lower California to the United States of America? What brighter star glitters in the galaxy of States than California? A higher luster can be given to this brilliant Commonwealth by annexing that strip of territory which by geographical logic should be a gem in her diadem. Where is the man who would not welcome the day with shouts of rejoicing, that ushered into the fold of our hospitable commonwealth that peninsula which stretches from the Tia Juana River far away to the Southern Gulf? The day is coming, the only question is, how soon will it come? The speedy accomplishment of this national necessity should be advocated as a consummation, not only devoutly to be wished, but as necessary to the full rounding out of Southern California's dearest hopes. Let the Mexican republic within the national limits of her geographical boundaries, carry out her destiny. Let the American flag float in peaceful triumph over that territory which nature has predestinated as an integral part of that great State that is destined to be the glory of the Pacific Coast. May Lower California be brought under the jurisdiction of that flag which represents in its political significance the sentiments and hopes of a people who live under institutions that embody principles expressed in the following verse:

Justice that knows no station,
Belief as soul decreed;
Free air for aspiration,
Free thought for independent deed!

Plate Glass Insurance.

[New York Evening Telegram.]

"Our business is not so risky as fire insurance," said a member of a company that insured plate glass, "because we can better protect ourselves against over-valuation, and our losses are lessened by salvage. Plate glass windows, as a general thing, meet with damage from three different causes. Fire destroys the most, many are broken by accident or through malice, while a few are blown in by wind storms. It is very seldom that a window is so badly shattered that we can't save some portion of it, and as we make it a rule to replace all panes that are broken instead of paying out the value in cash, you can readily see that our losses are not so heavy unless a very large pane gets shivered into atoms. We buy the glass at good discount, and have our own men to put it in. All the glass you can see in the outside office is salvage, and it is only in exceptional cases that we are unable to replace a pane from our stock on hand. Even the scraps are of value. They are put to many uses, especially for shelves in front of the cashiers' windows in banks and other offices.

"Plate glass is one of the most peculiar things in the world. At times it will stand any amount of hard usage, and then again the least thing will break it. I could tell you many queer stories in this relation. I have dropped a heavy hammer on a piece without injuring it, and when I have tried to show a friend how hard a blow it would stand I have had it grind into powder."

Moslem Power.

A Beirut letter to the New York Tribune gives an account of a remarkable Moslem revival, which received its first impulse from Constantinople about two years ago, and is rapidly spreading throughout the Ottoman Empire. At the outset orders were issued for the closing all schools supported by foreigners which did not have special grants from the Sultan. As time went on the movement extended to European and American schools of all kinds. Moslem children being prohibited by law from receiving instruction from foreigners. At the same time Turkish schools were opened in towns and villages and the children were made to attend them by compulsory statutes. Side by side with this Ottoman educational movement there has been a religious revival. The mosques have been repaired, renovated and decorated. New places of worship have been opened and the shrines of Moslem saints have been multiplied. The Turk is described as conducting this revival not in a fanatical spirit, but in a practical, business-like way for the sake of consolidating his political power and reinvigorating his influence in Asia. The revival is costing him a good round sum, but he is apparently well satisfied with the investment.

Lockjaw on Long Island.

[New York Star.]

Who can explain what there is in the air or climate of Long Island sea coast conducive to the terrible disease of lockjaw? To step on a rusty nail from Fire Island to Montauk is almost sure death. Visitors cannot touch many of the plants or shrubs without being poisoned, although they have no such effect on the natives. Scratches from shrubs or any sharp surface on the feet, or in fact any part of the body, are sure to result in serious inconvenience for a long time. Yet the natives do not appear to be so sensitive to these influences, except in the case of the rusty nail. That is almost invariably fatal. The lockjaw smiths ought to open an expert hospital to study the disease somewhere on the island.

Hospitality in the White House.

The President: Dan, how many doctors are out there waiting for an audience?
Dan: About 350.
The President: Are the little envelopes ready?
Dan: They are.
The President: Let them be distributed. Thank heaven, if I can't see every doctor that calls, I can furnish every one of the 5000 with an infallible rheumatism cure!

CONVICT LABOR.

CARROLL D. WRIGHT IN REPLY TO GOV. AMES, OF MASS.

The Chief of the National Bureau of Labor on the Proposed Change in the Prison Labor System of Massachusetts.

(Boston Journal.)

In reply to a communication forwarded by Gov. Ames, Col. Carroll D. Wright, Chief of the Bureau of Statistics of Labor, has just furnished a statement of the reasons which have led him to support the new departure in regard to the employment of convicts in its prisons, which the Commonwealth is about to make. He states the belief that the Governor, when he signed the Convict Labor Bill, not only did the Commonwealth a service, which would become more and more apparent if the change to the new system were faithfully carried out, but performed an act which would in no wise cause him regret in the future. Col. Wright says that he has been but little actuated by the idea of removing competition primarily while ardently desiring such a result.

I have thought, and still think, he continues, that it is wise in conducting our prison industries to conduct them, first, in the interest of society, an interest which has very largely been lost sight of in the immediate past; and, second, in the interest of the convict. If these two things can be secured and at the same time the irritation caused by the convict's employment can be reduced to the minimum, the problem is fairly well solved. The employment of convicts under the hand-labor system offers every possibility for reformatory efforts, debases no convict, even those who have arrived at middle age, helps to develop the untrained faculties of the young man, and further reduces the irritation resulting from the manufacture of goods in prisons to its minimum power. Under the factory system, as carried on in prisons, the corrigible and the incorrigible cannot be classified to a great extent, and their complete separation secured. This is a result greatly to be desired, for our prisons are too often simply schools for crime. The hand-labor system offers the best opportunities for the easy separation of convicts. It seems to me that while the hand-labor system, as all systems, is open to objections, and would be accompanied by some disadvantages, that these disadvantages and objections are far less than those accompanying any other system, and that the positive advantages are much greater. It is not ideal, nor is an ideal system possible, but it is apparent from all considerations, taking into account the welfare of society at large, of the men engaged in production, and of the convict himself, that the utilization of hand labor in place of the factory system, whether under what is called the public account or the piece-price plan, offers the nearest solution of what is known as the convict labor question.

Col. Wright says in his report that when the Convict Labor bill was on its passage, he was greatly pleased to find that one of its sections provided substantially for the introduction of the hand-labor system, this provision being contained in section 5 of the act: "No new machinery to be propelled by other than hand or foot power shall be used in any such institution." This provision he heartily commended, and when the bill was before the Governor for action he urged him to sign it purely on account of section 5, or that if the bill were to be vetoed it should not be vetoed on the ground of the change of the form of labor in our prisons, as contemplated by that section. "The other features of the bill I know nothing of," writes Col. Wright. "I have neither commended them, nor criticized them, nor read them. They are purely administrative provisions which may be very crude, or very perfect, for aught I know. Whatever erudition there is in them can be easily corrected, and whatever good can be retained." He asserts that the traditional supposition that men who labor in the prison under the factory system are well equipped to enter the same employment outside is not very strongly backed up by facts, and gives the following as his views on the financial aspect of the proposed change in system:

"So far as the income from the labor of convicts is concerned, the facts in Massachusetts are such as to relieve the public of all anxiety under any change that may be made, however radical. The financial aspects of the whole case have but little bearing upon the problem. The total expense of all prison institutions in the Commonwealth, as shown by the special report of the Commissioners of Prisons already alluded to, was for the past year $983,110.46, and the total receipts for labor only $179,527.58. No change of system could result in a much worse financial condition, a condition which is not the fault of the government, but is the result of interest causes. This fact shows conclusively that no harm could be done in Massachusetts through the introduction of the hand-labor system; further, it has been found in the experience of the Eastern Penitentiary of Pennsylvania, in which convicts have been taught, and have been employed at hand trades for over fifty years, that the results of the plan are not necessarily disastrous, even from an economic point of view, for that institution, containing an average of over a thousand prisoners, requires an annual appropriation of only $40,000 for all expenses above the profits on manufacture. The statement is also made, in a recent report of the board of inspectors, that for the year 1885, the net cost of maintaining the institution, above the earnings of convicts, was seven cents and seven mills per diem per capita; while during the same year the additional sum of $8839 was earned and placed to the credit of convicts for overwork."

A Very Correct View.
(Jefferson City Tribune.)

The Eastern papers can never make much headway in pulling Kansas City down. There is no use denying the fact that Kansas City has surpassed them all, and that her onward progress is of such a character that nothing short of a great national calamity can check it.

QUEER EXPERIMENTS

DR. LUYA ASTONISHES THE PARIS ACADEMY OF MEDICINE.

Strange and Inexplicable Results of the Application of Medicated or Fermented Substances on Hypnotic Subjects.

A special to the Tribune from Paris says: Dr. Luya, on August 30th, made a communication to the Academy of Medicine on a subject which electrified the members present. It was on the action, both at a distance and by direct contact, of certain medicated or fermented substances on hypnotic subjects. The latter were all women who could not possibly have got their cue beforehand, and were being observed, while Dr. Luya operated, by a jury of scientists, above all suspicion of having lent themselves to any trickery. A tube, in one instance, was filled with sulphate of strychnine by Dr. Luya, and the subject, who was not present, was told to put it to the left side of the nape of her neck. Soon after there was a telephonic message from the foreman of the jury to say that the patient suffered in the left side from muscular contractions, convulsive starts and a rigid body. When the drug was placed on the right side of the nape of the neck, in imagination the same phenomenon took place.

Experiments were made on subjects who were brought in to the operator. They had no idea what Dr. Luya was going to use. Alcohol, when put to the nape in a tube no larger than a homoeopathist's vial and hermetically sealed, produced exactly the same effect as if imbibed at a bar. Absinthe, hashish, opium, morphine, beer, champagne, tea and coffee were in succession tried, with their characteristic effects; but the cup which cheers but not inebriates was found too exciting for the French neophytes. Valerian caused the deepest somnolence; the thoughts of the patient were centered in the grave; she was impelled irresistibly to stoop down and scratch the ground, and thought herself in a cemetery exhaling a deceased relative whom she loved; she fancied herself picking up the bones belonging to his skeleton, which she handled with tender reverence, and when there was an imaginary mound of them found, she placed, with deep-drawn sighs and tears, and genuflections a cross above them.

Under the influence of hashish everything looked rosy and gayety prevailed. The subject was a young girl very fond of the drama. She fancied herself on the stage and playing a part which suited her to perfection. It was an opera bouffe, and she sang her score admirably. The sentiments were expressed with delicate feeling.

Dr. Luya can, according to the substances he uses, run through the whole gamut of human passions and emotions. What is most strange is that no trace of the fictitious world in which the hypnotized subject has been wandering remains when the real consciousness is restored. It is very rare even the idea of having been in dreamland to survive the awakening from the hypnotic trance. Dr. Luya says that hypnotic subjects sometimes have periods of incubating more or less long. The subjects are at first gently drawn to a certain thing or things, and then the drawing becomes an irresistible impulse. They are at first as if tempted and then as if possessed. They can no more help themselves than the man who had to go to the verge of Niagara Falls in a boat could help going over.

Dr. Roger moved that the academy name a commission to inquire into the hypnotic suggestions, near and at a distance. Dr. Brocardel supported him. He said: "All that Dr. Luya has alleged and shown cannot fail to make a noise throughout the world. Nobody save Mme. Bard and Bouren have gone so far as Dr. Luya. He not only forces on the attention of the academy the question of hypnotism, but of persons being affected by poisonous substances which do not penetrate or, it may be, even touch their bodies. This is, from a legal point of view, great danger. Great social responsibility is involved in the matter. It is the duty of the academy to have the experiments of Dr. Luya repeated, with others that bear upon them."

It is added that the influence gained by the hypnotic operator remains after the subject awakes from the trance. The Emperor of Brazil is very anxious to study hypnotism, or at least to dip into it, when he comes back to Paris.

True Courage.

(Augusta Gazette.)

In courage the ordinary woman greatly outstrips the ordinary man. Whether it be reckless, unconscious or sublime, the element of personal courage that effects a fit at the intrusion of a mouse knows no fear in the presence of real danger. A lady who would not venture from her rural front door alone was often met abroad leading a 3-year old child by the hand. When asked if she considered the infant's presence a protection she said: "In a measure, yes; for when I am alone I feel that I have no right to be away, and would run from a shadow; but if I were attacked with this child I would defend it to the last." Some persons will account for this on maternal instincts. But the lady was not related to the child and she was unmarried.

They Could Move.

(Omaha World.)

Texas man.—"You must not expect the same amount of energy in Texas as you have in Nebraska. Remember that Texas is in a very warm climate and people are obliged to move slowly." Omaha man.—"I have been there and I have seen Texas men move across a room faster than they ever do in Nebraska." "Eh! Was there an earthquake going on?" "No; the crowd had been invited up to drink."

THE STATE FAIR.

SOME OF THE NEW AND BEAUTIFUL EXHIBITS AT SACRAMENTO.

A Collection of Photographs of English Scenes—Marble from Inyo—The County Exhibits and Their Attractions—The Music.

[San Francisco Bulletin.]

"Are these to step on?" apologetically asked a visitor to the fair last evening, as she stepped into the artistic exhibition room of carpets, rugs and drapery arranged at the farther end of the art gallery. The question was odd, but reasonable, for such floor coverings are not often seen. Here are rugs, rich, rare and costly, made by skillful labor of oriental hands, and tapestry rare as any that fairy stories tell of. Sloan & Co., the exhibitors, have made a specialty of three important and attractive portions of house furnishing, and have brought together in their exhibit many rare pieces of artistic work. One long rug, an antique Kazurum, 161 feet by 74, is valued at $2500. It is an odd pattern with reddish brown and black predominating in the coloring. Another, called a modern Kasirabad, about 14 feet by 10, is valued at $1050. These two are the most costly rugs exhibited. They are in the side apartments where the visitor may not tread. Because of their value they will be withdrawn from the exhibition after this week. Other fine rugs are here shown. They cover walls as well as floor, combining well their darker colors with the portiere drapery exhibited. Here are rugs from looms of Turkey, Afghan, Lahore, Beechapore, Berlin, Oushak, Wilton and Axminster. Golden tapestry and delicately woven portiere material are also shown.

AN EXHIBIT OF PHOTOGRAPHS—INYO MARBLE.

The choice collection of art photographs by the English amateur, W. P. Robinson, shown in Sam Partridge's exhibit, at the west end of the gallery, attracts much attention. The skill of the photographer is shown in the careful choice of subject and arrangement of objects in the varied views. In all, nearly, are charming bits of English landscape, and others show in studied poses some more charming maidens. The fine work of this collection will certainly serve to act as a stimulus to Pacific Coast amateurs who already have done so much excellent work. There are abundant subjects for landscape photographers in California, and it might be well from motives of pride or from an immigration standpoint to send a reciprocal collection to Mr. Robinson in England. In this exhibit there are also all kinds of photographic material, cameras and outfits ranging in price from $6 to $140.

Although Inyo county is not down on the records with a county exhibit, yet it has a very effective one in that of the Inyo marble display in the right aisle on the first floor. Inyo people claim that about every known mineral is to be found in their lofty county of the Sierras, and some samples of the mineral wealth are shown. Gold and silver quartz, galena, pure salt, antimony and ten different kinds of dolomite marble are among the specimens. Side by side with them are monster apples, as large as any fertile Santa Clara can show, raised in the Owens River Valley, which has come to the front in the past few years as a rich agricultural district. The marble is marvelous for its purity and general excellence. The deposits, not far from Owens Lake, are almost boundless in their extent. There is enough of this matchless building material there to supply the world and to make San Francisco in architectural structure a second Rome. Fault was found by sculptors with some pieces of this white marble that it was too hard for easy modeling, as compared with that of Carrara or other Italian quarries. These pieces came from the outer first deposit, and it is gratifying to find that the under second strata, now being uncovered and developed, is softer and easier for the sculptor's chisel. It is evident that exposure causes the stone to harden, and this fact will prove of great advantage in its use for statuary. A large force of men are now at work removing this outer covering from the deposit at the quarry. Many persons have been going to Inyo county lately. The town of Keeler is growing quite rapidly, and with the construction of the Carson and Colorado road through to a connecting Los Angeles line, which project is more than railroad talk, a new era of prosperous growth for the country will doubtless begin.

The suburban 'cross-bay town of Berkeley has an exhibit of which any district might be proud in the display of the University of California in the southwest corner of the pavilion, in the addition. On the wall, deftly arranged with bamboo, wheat, oat and barley stalks and letters of grain is the placard:

"STATE UNIVERSITY CEREALS."

Fruit and grain are the chief products shown. The display may be said to be one of quality rather than quantity. The experimental orchard and grounds of the University are not large, and are devoted only to choice varieties of products. There are shown forty-five different kinds of wheat in grain and stalk, fifty-six varieties of apples and forty-nine varieties of pears, and besides are samples of millon size, sorghum, calafan rice, yellow seeded fax, bamboo, barley, rye, Podolish oats and many grains of various kinds. Prof. Hilgard and Prof. Wickson arranged the exhibit.

THE COUNTY EXHIBITS.

The county exhibits have proved one of the features of the fair, for the people do not seem to tire of looking at and hearing about the marvelous resources of the fertile sections of this favored State. Two counties not much heard of comparatively, make creditable displays of products—Humboldt and San Benito. The redwood is the pride of the former, but the exhibit is to let people know there are other things than forests. Big pears and apples, and luscious grapes, and quantities of wool are produced there. Last year over 1,000,000 pounds of wool were shipped. The "boom" has hardly reached Humboldt yet. The advent of a railroad will surely bring a steady growth of population on the county's 2,297,000 acres. San Benito county exhibits dried, fruit of excellent quality, telling of fertile soil and warm sun, and there are shown also immense vegetables and choice fruits, demonstrating the capability of this little inland county.
